

All Aboard the smart investing@your library Van!

Starting in early May and continuing through late September, the smart investing@your library van will be traveling the countryside, sharing the message that your public library is a good source of unbiased investment information.

The van is available at no cost to Alliance Member Libraries for special library events, community festivals, and fairs. Or you can just invite us to set up in front of your library for a day. The van will carry a display including a variety of multimedia educational materials on the subject of investing, retirement planning and more. No set-up is required. Our Outreach Coordinator will set up and staff the display throughout. If you have an event that is likely to draw a big crowd, or just a good place to park the van, we will try to get there.

To invite the Smart Investing @ Your Library to visit your neck of the woods, please send the following information to JHoward@alliancelibrarysystem.com:
